Residents of the Orphan House were often poor white children with living parents who could not afford to care for them. Orphan House children typically received a few years of school before being hired out as apprentices, farmers, or domestic servants. In 1951, the children were moved to a new site called Oak Grove Plantation in North Charleston.

The collection consists of the administrative records of the Charleston Orphan House, from its founding in 1790 to its removal from urban Charleston to suburban North Charleston in the early 1950s. These materials not only document the long-term management of a large municipal institution, but also provide significant insight into the care and nurturing of thousands of individual children.

The Charleston Orphan House - Genealogy Trails

An extremely well researched study of life in the Orphan House during its first 60 years, seen through the eyes of Charleston's poorest children and the parents who had to send them. My direct interest in the Orphan House is during the Civil War and later when my great grandfather and his brother were sent there after their parent were killed at the end of the Civil War.
